Helena, Mont., Jan. 16.—Both houses of he Montana legislature balloted separately today for a United States senator in the senate, all present, was as rollows:
Republicans—T. S. Carter, 10: Lee Mantle, 3; William Lindsay, 2; and Conrad, 6; H. L. Frank, 3; Walter Cooper, 1:
The house voted as follows:
Republicans—Carter, 20; Mantle, 7; Lindsay, 5; W. F. Sanders, 1; B. F. White, 2; T. C. Power, 2, and E. W. Kinst, 1.
Democrats—Conrad, 11; Frank, 4; J. I.
Phelps, 1; Walter Cooper, 2; G. R. Milburn, 1; and J. K. Toole, 1.
Fusionists—John Macginniss, 13. Two members did not vote.
Tomorrow the first joint ballot will be taken and this afternoon the triends of Senator Carter, who received 39 votes, or 20 less than the desired number, are making strenuous efforts to bring about a caucus in the bellef that a caucus will soon decide for Carter. It seems to be questionable whether a caucus of more than 25 or 38 favoring Carter can be securred today.

QUITE A FLUTTERING.

Republican Members Don't Want to Discuss the Subject.

Washington, Jan. 10.-Whether there will be an extra session of congress for a revision of the tariff is a question, in the president and a fill be bassed by the house.

Senators who plan to place on the house the burden of an extra session argue that certain house members, in discussing the relative positions of the two legislative branches of congress have not refrained from advancing the charge that the senate does not represent the people as does the house, and say that if opposition to an extra session is made effective it will not be the senate that erects the barrier.

Don't Want to Talk.

Few senators are to found who are willing to discuss the matter for publication, beyond saying that if a tariff session is called it should not be held before autume, to be convened in October, preferably. The argument in favor of a late session is that the members of the ways and means committee of the house and the finance committee of the senate would have an opportunity to investigate the demands for a revision and thus arrive at a better understanding of legislative needs before the session is assembled.

bled.
There is a lively exchange of views and gossip regarding tariff revision going on in the house. While no direct or organized poll of its members is being made, and caucuses by state delegations are not being held, it is known that the speaker, as well as prominent members of the ways and means committee, are cellating the views of members personally.

Poll of Members.

Poll of Members.

The only approach to a poll of members on the subject is that which was completed by Representative Tawney of Minnesota, the Republican "whip," before the holiday recess. Mr. Tawney found a decided sentiment in favor of an investigation by the proper committee of the house regarding changes in industrial conditions which may have taken place since the enactment of the Dingley tariff, with a view to ascertaining the schedules. The result of this inquiry was placed in possession of the in the schedules. LANDED ON SAND BAR

Steamer Dalles City Nearly Went Down in Columbia River.

Portland. Ore., Jan. 19.—A dispatch was received from Stevenson, Wash., this afternoon stating that the steamer Dafles City, bound from this city to The Dalles, Wash., struck on a rock in the Columbia river this morning and began to fill. Her captain headed the steamer toward shore at full speed and managed to land her on a sandbar. There was a amic among the seventy passengers on the Dalles City, but through the efforts of the commander and the crew of the vessel the men and women on board were reassured. The steamer Regulator took the passengers off the Dalles City and proceeded up the river to The Dalles. The stream where the accident occurred is very narrow and many rocks make navigation dangerous. A strong head wind impeded the progress of the steamer and the flood waters of the river interfered with the navigation of the vessel, which finally struck a submerged rock, tearing a great hole in her bow. It is feared that the vessel may go to pieces in the swift running waters, and at best she will have to undergo extensive repairs.
